

BENNY BOY GOES BUSH

First Peoples
Disability Network
Australia

WYLDECLAN

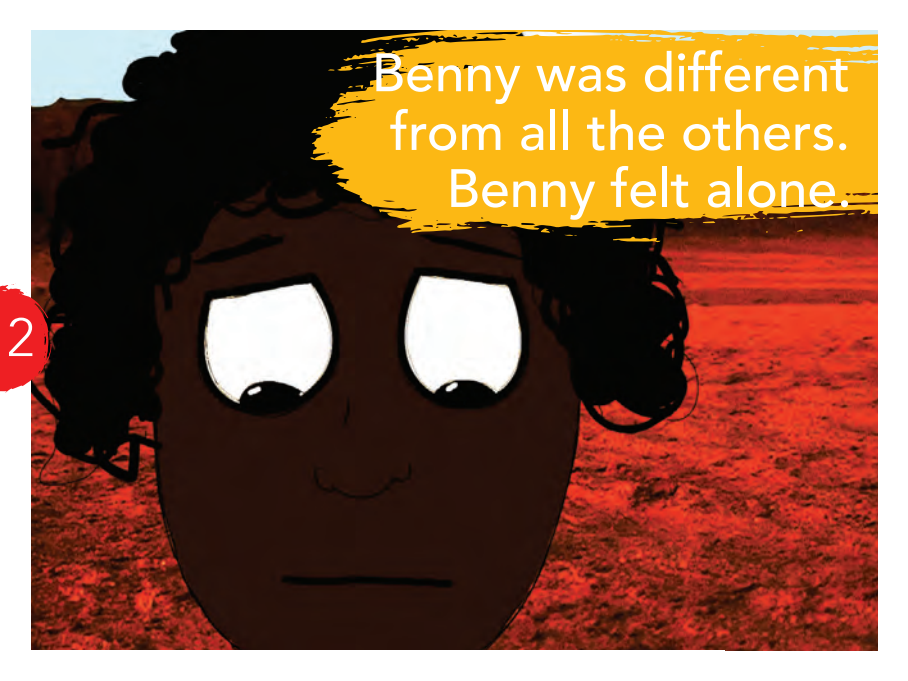

fpdn.org.au

1

Far, far away lived a boy named Benny.

Benny was different from all the others.
Benny felt alone.

3

One day, in camp,
Benny watched all
the others go bush.

Benny always wanted
to join the others.

4

5

Grandpa looked over to Benny and noticed he was very sad.

6

Benny, why do you look so sad?

I wish I could be like the others but I am different.

Different, you say Benny?

You and I are going on a journey in the far north,
there is something
I want you to see.

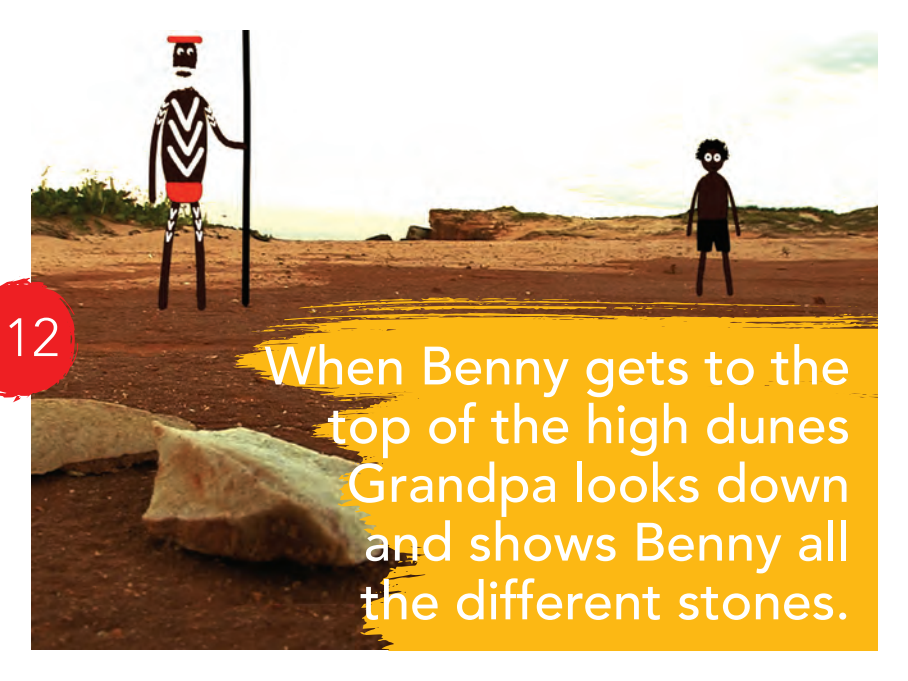

10

Benny had never been over the dunes before.

Grandpa pointed out the different country. So they continued their journey north into the different country.

12

When Benny gets to the top of the high dunes Grandpa looks down and shows Benny all the different stones.

13

And their different uses.

Grandpa shows Benny
all the different trees.

14

15

And their different uses.

Grandpa shows Benny
all the different animals.

16

A crocodile is swimming in green, rippling water. Only its head and part of its back are visible above the surface. The water has a yellowish-green tint, possibly due to algae or reflections. The crocodile's head is on the left side of the frame, and its body extends towards the right. The background is a vast expanse of water with some light reflections.

17

And the different way they lived.

18

Benny could see all the different things, he could hear all the different sounds, he could smell all the different smells.

An illustration featuring two cartoon characters with large, white, circular eyes and simple, smiling mouths. The character on the left has a brown face and is wearing a white, textured garment. The character on the right has a dark brown face and is wearing a dark, curly hat. They are standing in a desert landscape with brown sand and sparse, dark green bushes. A teal speech bubble with a brushstroke border is positioned in the upper right, containing white text. A red circle with the number '19' is on the left side.

They passed all the different campsites until they finally reached the far north.

20

When Benny arrived
he saw everyone there.

21

He saw that everyone was different.

22

They all had different roles
to play.

23

They all worked as one.

24

A photograph showing the silhouettes of four children against a bright, hazy sunset sky. The children are positioned across the frame from left to right. The child on the far left is holding a ball. The child on the far right is holding a long, thin stick or pole. The ground is dark and appears to be a flat, open area.

Benny soon found his place.

25

And was happy ever after.